FACULTY

The Class of '81 began its career at Tufts by giving the University a rousing vote of confidence: far more of you made the final decision to come to Tufts than Admissions had anticipated, based on previous years' experience. In the past four years you have been part of many other changes. You have seen the rebuilding of a large Barnum and the addition of new psychology laboratories, the topping off of the Intercultural Center, the restoration of Curtis Hall and Carpenter House and the beginnings of extensive maintenance, renovations, and improvements on a number of facilities on the Hill. You have seen the first phase of the expansion of Cousens completed, the opening of the dorm on Latin Way and ground broken for its companion dorm on the Hillside and have been involved in some of the preliminary work on the Campus Center.

You have seen the development of our joint-degree programs with the Museum of Fine Arts and the New England Conservatory, and a number of you are participating in the new International Relations program between the Faculty of Arts and Sciences and the Fletcher School. You have taken the new courses in nutrition and decision-making and witnessed the extension of courses in a number of disciplines — such as anthropology, dance, music, new languages, and a great variety of new computer based courses, from mathematics to Latin.

It is your class spirit that has helped to make S.P.I.R.I.T. the great success it is.

At the end of these four undergraduate years, I would like to return the vote of confidence you gave to Tufts. We shall remember the Class of '81 with pride and affection. We know you will be good citizens. We hope that as alumnae and alumni you will continue to take an active part in the development of the University.

We were all innocent in many ways when we first appeared at this place. All we wanted was to graduate in four years with at least at 3.0 cum and also have the best time of our lives. Everyone had heard what a great place college was. And Boston was the best of all places to be in college, every student knew that

Four years later some of us aren't going to school in Somerville, sorry Medford. But those who stuck it out have alot to remember. It's doubtful that many members of the class of '81 are still innocent in any way. We have all had our lives molded and changed by names like Winant, Marcos, Mayer, Reagan and of course Bob Winn. Whether it was national or local news, some members of the class reacted.

Freshman year there was the demonstration against Ferdinand Marcos' grant to the Fletcher School. Senior year the Marcos chair was abolished for lack of funds from Ferdinand Marcos. Other demonstrations were held annually to protest the rise in tuition. The hard work and effort of those involved lead to a drastic cut of $75 in the 1981 tuition. But at least the students reacted; Tufts was not the apathetic school that many people hoped for.

The increasing number of candidates for the Senate each year showed a more involved student body. The Senate (who will ever forget the faces of Kent Alexander and Tom Alperin thanks to the Observer), came close to being dissolved senior year, but survived. During the four years they sent $5,000 to Cambodia, demanded that a student center be built, questioned the authority of the administration and tried to strengthen the security of Tufts. There were always some problems with security at school. More lights were erected, a safety van was used to circle the campus, and extra officers of the law were added. Yel problems continued to arise. The freshman year brawl in Hill Hall to the senior year West party; incidences occurred at social events and as a part of everyday life.

Socially, life at Tufts bounced from the Franconia-Notch band during freshman orientation week, when freshmen watched upperclassmen have a great time to when it landed for some at either Boston-Boston, the Rat, the Paradise, Swifts, the Jumbo or Tufts' own Pub. The Pub started bringing big bands to the Medford campus like Kate Taylor, Albert Collins and Robin Lane. These acts along with Tufts' own musical creators such as Roadwork, Fine Lines, Mystic Valley Mountaineers and Two Bit Heat made Thursday nights in the pub a special tradition. And for some still looking for a good time they could cap off the evening at an after hours party, where the market would still be open.

The Grateful Dead, The China Syndrome, A Chorus Line, Bruce Springsteen and whatever the Orson Welles Theater was playing attracted students off campus. While Deep Throat, Gil Scott-Heron, Jane Fonda and John Anderson gave students incentive to stay. The social life on campus grew as it became more organized, as one knew more people and made close friends. Large dorm parties which were part of freshman and sophomore years changed into small personal parties where there was room to dance.

Engineers, Liberal Arts students and OT's all lived the social life together. They also shared the same academic facilities, sometimes the same seats. The overcrowding in the library became worse each year, as it always seemed each freshman class was more intent on studying. Of course, inside the library it seemed as if everyone was talking about last Friday night and what embarrassing situations occurred. But individual class sizes decreased through the years, except for senior favorites like Gittelman's Yid Lit and the senior sex course.

Sports were always talked and who can ever forget the Red Sox-Yankee playoff game. There were ups and downs for the Jumbo teams in all sports. The biggest improvement came in fun participation. Football games were attended and homecoming was a big success as a King and Queen were elected adding to the increased campus spirit.

Latin Way dorm, Gov. King, the hostages, Dean Harleston, and Faneuil Hall have taught us about life in the university and society. We have also learned to stay on lines for meals, ID's, banks and course registration. During these times we have become wiser and more independent. We were able to survive the blizzard, the burning of Carpenter House and the forced busing of students to the Sheraton. And, we were able to experience the sounds of Pousette-Dart on a beautiful spring day, the events during senior week and the friendships formed for a lifetime.

That constitutes our four years at Tufts.

ACTIVITIES AND

ORGANIZATIONS

TPAC (Tufts Political Action Coalition) is a group of concerned students who try to educate the campus about important social issues. Some of the issues we dealt with are; South African Divestment, Registration, Draft, and the threat of nuclear war, Racism, sexism, and workers rights. One of our goals is to make Tufts students aware that there are serious problems with our country's political and economic system in the hopes that we all will be motivated to look for solutions and make serious efforts to affect social change.

The Men's and Women's Volleyball Clubs

Both the Men's and Women's Volleyball Clubs have completed two successful years of play. The two club teams started in the Fall semester of 1978 and have expanded considerably since. Although the Men's and the Women's Clubs are funded separately, and are in separate men's and women's collegiate leagues, we've played together in co-ed tournaments when they have cropped up and have enjoyed joint planning on social events. We're proud to represent Tufts in the most participated sport in the world on and intercollegiate level. Vive l'université de Tufts et le volleyball!

HOMECOMING

Camino Real

A Kind of historic, fantastic statement about values, Camino Real touches the hearts and minds of most audiences. One feels a certain fervor in Camille's desire to escape, in Casanova's quest for honor, and in Kilroy's search for identity and a home. Above all, the 1980 production of Camino Real meant an exploration into the forms of media and culture that affect society today. What touched us romantically is as gentle as the violets in the mountains, what forced our decisions were the mountains we overcame and the rocks we had to break. In an attempt to communicate the plight of people in a desperate situation Camino Real reached out through the strong performances of its cast members. Camino Real was a fast and funny breakthrough for the Arena Theatre.

Big and Little

Big and Little, by Botho Strauss, the fall's first Arena Master's production, is a contemporary German drama concerning themes of loneliness and alienation in a largely unspecified but explicitly modern milieu. Directed by Ph.D. candidate Diana Robbins, the play starred Pamela Davis as Lotte, the principal figure, with a supporting cast that included Nancy Frigand, Phoebe Reeves, Julie Meltzer, Ric Najarian, Kenn Watt and Mitchell Rosen. The play's disassociated structure consisted of a series of scenes in which Lotte is confined progressively further within a world in which communication with others is thwarted. Forced to rely on her own sensibility for meaning, Lotte is psychologically and physically ostracized from society. Strauss' gripping dialogue combined with assured directing and a good cast to produce a challenging play and one of the years theatrical highlights.

The 1980-81 Beelzebubs enjoyed one of the groups most successful seasons. On campus events included two chapel concerts during the Fall semester, a cocktail party concert at Hill Hall in February, and the annual Intercollegiate Sing in April. The group also recorded another blockbuster album and went on an extensive concert tour. Graduating seniors were Stu Varon, Matt Langer, Mike Horwitz, and Adam Handler. Group officers were Jon Knapp, President, Adam Handler, Music Director, and Mark Kline, Business Manager.

The Student Health Advisory Board (SHAB) is a student organization that acts as a liason between the Health Services, the administration and the student body. It provides for the Health Services a student's opinion on the quality and variety of services offered and is a source of manpower to run special events throughout the year.

Among SHAB's major goals are to improve health care at Tufts, to increase student health awareness and to improve the students' perception of Health Services. Members of the committee have worked together to accomplish these goals. Hypertensive screening in the dining halls, health related articles in "The Observer" and "Tufts Daily" and the Annual Health Fair are the most obvious accomplishments of this year's enthusiastic members. Plans for changing the current health insurance policy, provision of transportation to hospitals and changing the structure of Hooper House to increase efficiency of the staff are other projects undertaken by SHAB this year.

Tufts Gay Community

The Tufts College Republicans, numbering more than 115 by election day, spent many an early morning and late evening working for the Reagan/Bush ticket both on and off campus. The club participated in rallies for George Bush and Maureen Reagan, among others. Many Tufts students were seen clad in pilgrim outfits at Faneuil Hall handing out literature on weekends, and sleepy-eyed handing out buttons at T stops to early morning commuters. Club members were also active in many local campaigns. Regular meetings were held Wednesday evenings throughout the year, at which time speakers ranging from Republican candidates to State College Republican Office Holders. The hard work paid off when Massachusetts went for Reagan, and when Tufts College Republican Members attended the President's inauguration in Washington.

"After you, of course"

It is clear to anyone who has ever seen 100 runners line up and start a race at the sound of a gun that they can't all start running at once. We were the team who politely said, "after you, of course". Beth once confessed she felt guilty when she passed people and Meg apologized to another runner for out-kicking her in the last stretch. Coach Gavoor said we were too nice, perhaps we were. While our record is best forgotten, other memories linger: mud and Jeannie fretting "I haven't opened a book in seven days!" the smell of Cramergesie and Barb moaning "I haven't slept in seven days!" And most of all, we remember our faithful captain, Ellen, pulling us through the season with the promise of her indescribable chocolate and coconut goodies on Friday nights.

A team that runs together

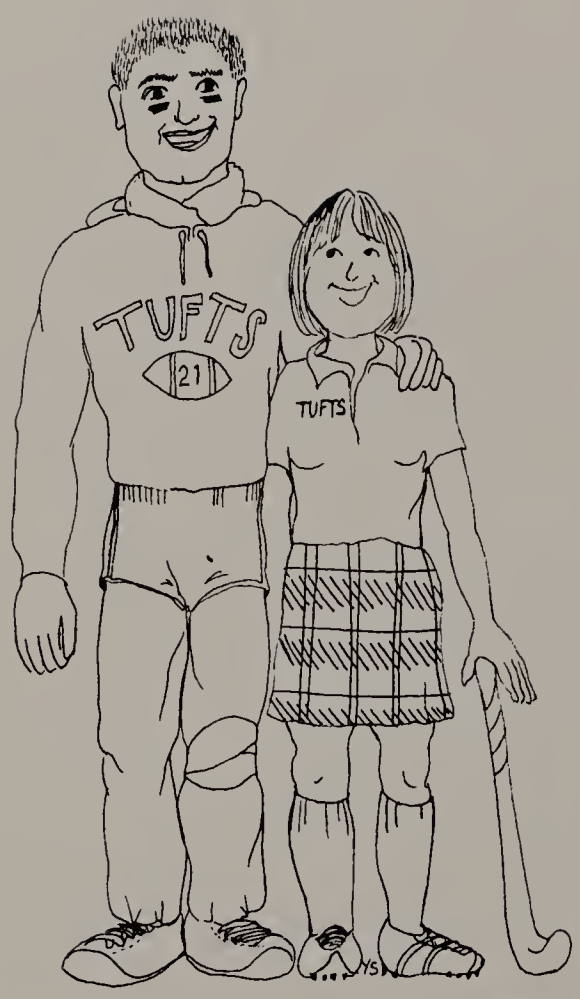
The Tufts women's track team was undefeated in dual and tri-meets. Coach Nancy Gavoor credits this success to the hard work, strong individual efforts and excellent team spirit. Betsy Gelenitis, Diane Wilcox and Alyssa Sanchez have given good individual efforts in the shotput. In the 50 yard hurdles, Tufts women Heather Sibbison and Linda Duryea have excelled. Barb Nicol had four of her own personal best times within a three week span. Margie Bloomhardt, Ann Segal, Adrian Austin, Norma Massarotti, and Margie Golden contributed to the team's excellent record. The women's track team looks to continued success next season.

Keep on tracking

Doing well in the weight events, Doug Whiting proved to be a valuable asset to the track team. Captain Norm Costin led the team with his outstanding performance in the high hurdles. Doug Potter excelled once again in his specialty, the high jump. In the track events, Paul Murray and Ed Ellison consistently placed well. These two also participated in the Greater Boston Championships.

Squash is a vegetable.

Willard Bigelow, this year's captain, has not lost any matches since his sophomore year. He has twice been named All-American. His efforts have largely contributed to the Squash team's excellent record. Other outstanding players include freshman Saki Kahn, senior Mike Kingsley and junior Bill Allan. Despite the loss of Bigelow, next year's team should be strong contenders.



A swinging season

This year's squash team had a good season and placed well in the Howe Cup — the intercollegiate team championship. Senior Pam Esserian was captain last year, and this year's captains were juniors, Margaret Durfee and Kathy Dewenter. Also helping the team with a fine record were sophomores Carolann Burke, Kristin Cripe, and Ann Marie Cook, and junior Beth Bennett.

Ranked within top ten small colleges in the east

The 1980 Jumbo football team finished its season with an impressive 6-2 record, achieving a ranking within the top ten small college teams in the east for the second consecutive year. The strength of the squad was in the defense, particularly owing to the outstanding play of senior lineman, Steve Finnegan and sophomore linebacker, Tom Duffy. The defensive team allowed an average of only 12 points a game. The finest offensive show of the season was put together by running back, Mike Krueger against Amherst. Running behind an explosive offensive line, and quarterback, Scott Carpenter's option oriented offense, Krueger ran for 326 yards on 31 carries for a new school record in a 30-6 romp. Both losses suffered by Tufts were by margins of less than a field goal and resulted from unlucky bounces in the waning seconds of the game. These losses, to Trinity in the season opener and Bates in the closing game of the season, were unlucky breaks for the Jumbos.

Division III champs

Teamwork and passing were the key words in the field hockey team's impressive 7-3-3 season, the best record compiled in years. The excellent play of the offensive team was complimented by stunning defensive work, particularly by the goalkeepers. The team received an invitation to the Massachusetts Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (MAIAW) tournament and were seeded second. They returned to Tufts with the Division III championship title. The team will be losing only one senior. Coach Marissa Didio and her team can look forward to many more seasons like this one because of the relative youth of the team.

Second year with varsity standing

In it's second year as a varsity sport, the women's soccer team rallied to a 4-6-1 season record. The team consisted of many young players this year. There was a large turnover in it's membership from last year's 9-2 season. This year's squad was plagued with injuries. The only senior player, Marian Ladner, tied for the most improved player award. She was recognized by her teammates as contributing spirit and skills to the season's final games. Another senior, Merle Miller, who played on last year's team but was unable to play this year, served as a manager for the Fall '80 season.

Five key players graduate

Although the Men's Soccer team defeated Bates 3-0 in their final game of the season, they had less success against most of their opponents, racking up a 2-9-1 record. This record is not reflective of the talent of the team but rather the strength of the opposotion. Despite the loss of Hank Millar, a 3 year starter in the goal, Michael Stollar, a halfback, captain and All Boston league, Eric Nauffts, the 12th man with great hustle, Tim Gehling and Mike Duffy, next year's team should be strong because of fine young players such as freshmen sensation, Mark Busa and goalie Brian Bachner.

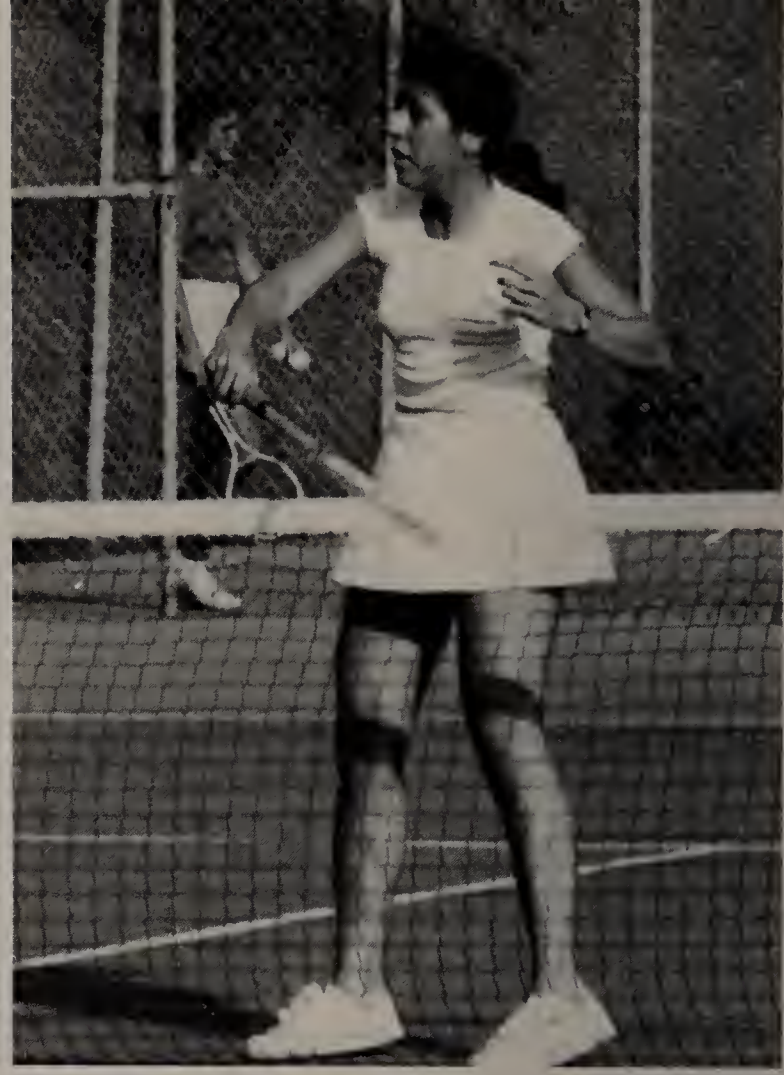
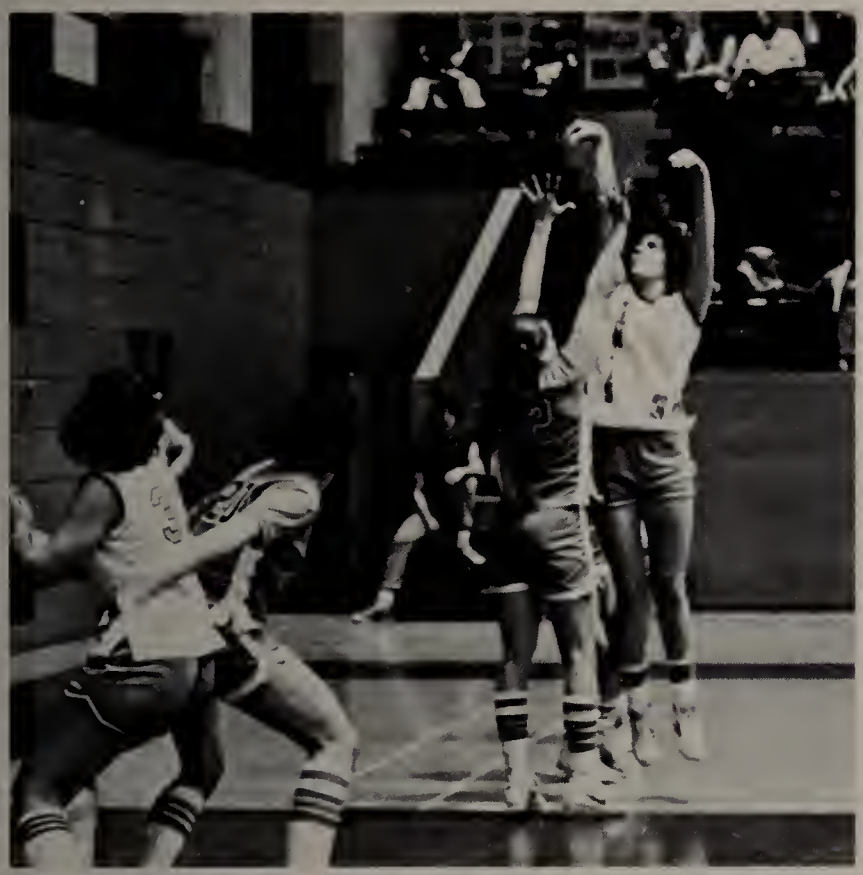
7th out of 55

The Women's Tennis Team had a good season with a final record of 5-4. They made an excellent showing in the New England's by ranking seventh out of 55 teams which were participating. Captain Wendy Shahon, the only senior on the team, played number two singles and proved to be quite an asset to the team. Other outstanding players included the three MVP's sophomores Michele Rosen and Carolann Burke and junior Beth Hachhauser. The prospects for next year look promising with most of the team returning.



Hot Shot

Paula Moss shattered the women's scoring record this season, averaging 16 points a game. Her outstanding play has been aided by seniors, Lisa Mailman and Debbie Kocher. With the loss of only these two seniors next year, the Women's Basketball team looks to a marvelous season behind scoring ace, Paula Moss.



Foul play

Bill Ewing and John Caragiorgis led this year's Jumbo basketball team to a good season. Sophomore Troy Cooper and Scott Brown added excellent showing. With many young players, such as Charlie Neal and Lenny Barber, the prospects for next season look excellent.

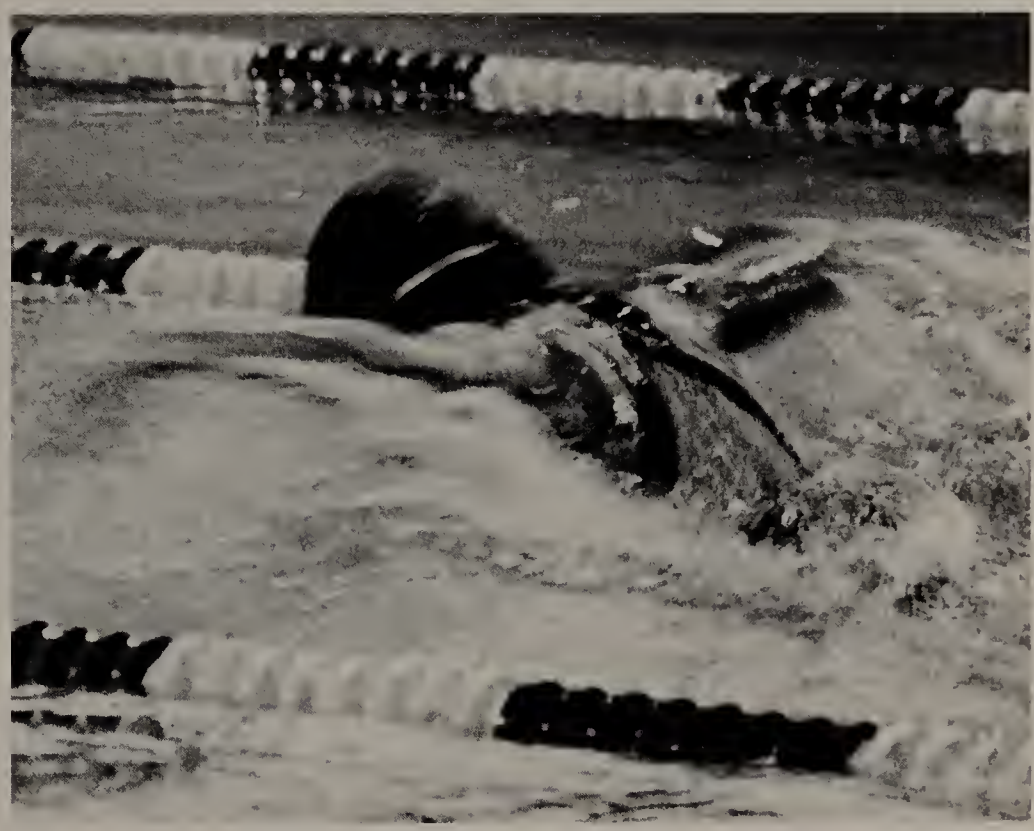
Splish-splash

The Tufts women's swimming team has had another strong season this year. Many records were broken, especially by Sue Burt who kept breaking and rebreaking her own records. Brenda Kay, All-American, and Donna Almy have turned in excellent performances in the individual medley. The loss of senior captain Kathy Elliot will be a great one, but with such talent as the team now has, the women's swim team should continue to be a threat for years to come.



What a dive

With five All-Americans and eight school record-setters returning from last winter's team, the Tufts men's swimming team knew they were in for a good season. Headlining this year's stellar team were, Jim Lilley, John Montesi, Mike Feldstein, and Greg Bates. The team only lost four seniors so prospects for the future continued to look bright.
